Three of Nerine Group of Fiduciaries' young professionals have been acknowledged in Citywealth magazine's Future Leaders List 2016.

Assistant trust managers, Donna Brehaut and Marina Le Gallez, and business development executive, Naro Zimmerman, have been listed among just 24 individuals in the trustees' category across the UK and Europe.

The list features young professionals from accounting, family office, law, trust and private banking sectors in the UK and is compiled through recommendations from directors, senior peers and clients. The recommendations recognise their years of study and hard work and their potential as future business leaders.

Miss Brehaut was promoted to assistant trust manager in 2013. Her work includes overseeing an administration team dealing with global high-net-worth clients and family structures with a particular focus on international clients and succession planning.

Miss Le Gallez joined Nerine in 2011 and is a key part of the team responsible for administering a large managed trust company with more than 30 entities. She is also a valuable member of the business development team.

Mr Zimmerman joined Nerine in 2015 after working in the trust sector in Guernsey for 10 years. He is responsible for assisting and coordinating the marketing and business development of Nerine across multiple jurisdictions with key responsibility for the Middle East.

Nerine executive chairman, Keith Corbin, said: "It's great to see three incredible young professionals from Nerine showcased on the Citywealth future leaders list this year; it is an excellent endorsement of their talents. They have all proven to be outstanding team members and role models.

"Nerine's senior staff have featured frequently over the years in Citywealth's respected Leaders List so it is rewarding to see Nerine's next generation also being recognised. Nerine is committed to excellence in client service and this can only be achieved through the expertise and dedication of our staff."
